

Teri Brown: Freelancer. Author. Teacher. Speaker.

I'm a freelance writer, author, teacher and speaker with over fifteen years of professional experience. Nationally, my clips run from Women's Health and Fitness to Writer's Digest to Dog Fancy. Locally, I've written for Community Newspapers of Oregon, Oregon Coast Magazine and Northwest Woman. I've also written for the Huffington Post and a host of Kimberly Clark newsletters. In addition, I worked for over ten years as a contributing editor for iParenting/Disney's Online Family.

Writer's Resume

Experience

2001 to 2009: iParenting Media/Disney Internet Group

- Contributing Editor. Interviewed experts, organized research and wrote four to ten articles a month on topics concerning education, parenting, child development and health.

2001 to Present: Freelance Writer

- Extensively published with many magazines and newspapers including: Writer's Digest, Dog Fancy, Women's Health and Fitness, Northwest Woman Magazine, Baby Years, Oregon Coast Magazine, Road King, multiple regional parenting magazines, Community Newspapers of Oregon and many more.

2007 to Present: Author and Speaker

- Contracted with Harper Collins for young adult books and with Simon & Schuster for adult historicals. Designed and implemented marketing strategies and events.

2014 to Present: Community Educator for Portland Community College

- Teaches novel writing, creativity, plotting and flash fiction for PCC's Community Education program.
-

Personal

- Experience with both public speaking and conducting workshops for writer's groups and school groups. Appeared on AM Northwest and Good Morning Central Oregon, as well as given a multitude of radio interviews. I've spoken at Wordstock, Northwest Woman's Show, MOPS, (Mothers of Preschoolers), and at the Northwest Independent Booksellers Association Conference.